

NHT Pro Audio Joins Music Industry Elite To Co-Sponsor MusicCares Benefit in Nashville

NHT Pro Audio recently co-sponsored one of Nashville's biggest blowouts in an effort to support MusiCares, an organization that helps music industry veterans in times of need.

The Third Annual Roy Acuff Place Block Party, which was held in Nashville, TN on Tuesday, May 2nd, 8 PM - 10 PM, brought together some of the audio industry's biggest names as well as local businesses for an event that was held on the city's famous "music row."

"MusiCares epitomizes what can be accomplished when artists and manufacturers work together to support music pros whose work enriches our lives, but who themselves may have fallen on tough times," said Don Bassey, Product Manager, NHT Pro Audio. "We're proud to have been a part of such an important event, and you can be sure we had a blast with all our friends in Nashville."

"We started this in the spirit of the old days, when Music Row block parties were common events," said Rob Dennis of Rack & Roll Audio, one of the party's host companies. "Friends like NHT Pro Audio are helping to provide an opportunity for the music community to come together, have fun, and support a worthwhile cause."

All correct responses were entered into a drawing on September 19 for the Grand Prize of one (1) pair of the same speaker in the film, which in fact is the ST4 three-way tower with a built-in 8" vented subwoofer.

MusiCares was established by the Recording Academy in 1989. Approximately 2,000 people are expected to attend this year's Block Party, where, for a $10 admission fee, they will enjoy barbecue, beer, and live music provided by James Slater and The Tyrone Smith Revue.

In addition to the company's co-sponsorship of the Block Party, NHT Pro Audio donated a pair of M-00 mini-monitors, an S-00 subwoofer, and a Passive Volume Control (PVC) that were awarded in the Audio Masters Golf Tournament, held at the Harpeth Hills Golf Club in Nashville on Friday, May 5th, to benefit the Nashville Engineers Relief Fund. (Total prize value is $1,100.00.)
